A number of folks in the congregation have requested a copy of the sermon recently presented by Ginny Donley on Youth Sunday (July 14th). We are honored to provide you with a copy of her sermon, “Failure”

What is failure? The dictionary tells us it is a “lack of success,” which begs us to then ask, “What is success?” The dictionary tells us that success is the “attainment of wealth, goals, position, honor, etc.” These definitions lead us to the conclusion that these two terms are opposites – but does that make them mutually exclusive? I would argue it does not, and I put to you that failure is in and of itself a success, and vice versa. Failure is not the end of the world, but merely an end to a chapter of one’s life, leading to the next chapter.

Someone once told me, “When you put all of your eggs in one basket, and you drop the basket, what do you do? Whatever the hell you want to!” But I don’t think necessarily dropping the eggs is failure...or even deciding to move on from those eggs by filling the basket with avocados. It’s only really failure if you just stand there staring at your broken eggs for the rest of your life.

When Moses came down and broke the Ten Commandments out of anger, when he failed to keep his emotions in check and obtain his goal of delivering the tablets, he didn’t give up. He walked back up the mountain to try again. And the fact that he failed the first time, that his people failed to listen to him, is important. It showed how dedicated he was, how dedicated the people were, by going to the effort of trying again and switching gears.

One of my favorite fairy tales is about a young boy who is a complete idiot and buffoon. This boy falls in love with a princess whose father says he can only marry her if he brings in a magic feather. Of course, the boy’s magic animal companion knows exactly how to get the feather by giving him specific instructions. The boy, being a fool, forgets the instructions and gets caught, and now he has to steal another magical item to trade for the feather to trade for the princess. This happens three times. But the boy never gives up. Despite being a fool – or maybe because he is a fool – he never stops trying and eventually he succeeds.

Nothing ever goes as planned, which is the reason I make three or four plans. If we’re not failing, if everything comes easy and perfect, then we are doing something wrong. Failure is how we know we really need something.

Failure is an awful, terrible, and scary thing, but it’s healthy and important, like giving my cat his antibiotics. Sometimes nothing is going to work out and that’s O.K. It’s O.K. to pick up a new basket of eggs or avocados or give up baskets for a wheelbarrow...as long as we don’t just stand there!

Feature Film

Food Choices

Our first film of the 2019-2020 season examines a topic that covers a wide range of concerns we often discuss. Too many friends and acquaintances are dealing with serious health issues, whether it's heart disease, cancer, or a plethora of other conditions. Is there anything we can do for ourselves and others? What kind of planet are we leaving to future generations? Will global warming be the undoing of humanity? Can we address it, even in a small way? Are these disparate issues, or are they connected in some significant way?

Food Choices is a different kind of film. It takes a broad look and explores the impact that our food choices have not only on our own health, but also on the health of our planet as well as on the lives of other living species on earth and shows how everything is intrinsically interconnected. This film features interviews with renowned doctors, nutritionists, environmental experts, holistic health practitioners, athletes, musicians, celebrities, authors, bloggers as well as people that shared their amazing stories of how they changed their lives; including those who conquered disease or simply lost weight by implementing a plant-based diet in their lives.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES – JULY MEETING

The board met for their usual monthly meeting.

The July agenda for the board was light. The topics discussed included items for the Semi-Annual Meeting (July 28), and the finalization of the Herrick Foundation Grant application.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE 2019 SEMI-ANNUAL MEETING JULY 28, 2019

Pastor John Doud led an Early Christian Service that included a potluck and discussion time.

At 11:47 AM, Moderator Sara Keinath called the Semi Annual Meeting to order. Items discussed included:

- A snapshot of the church's current finances. Treasurer Patrick Delaney stated that $38,816 of the $69,080 General Fund Pledges has been collected for the year. This is a little more than half of the general fund pledges. He reiterated that this amount reflects only what congregants pledged (via pledge cards). In comparison to last year's finances at this time, the church's financial health is marginally better.
- There were some questions about those who designate pledges for specific budget line items. These questions will be addressed resolved after the board meets in August to refine and streamline the pledge cards. The congregation will be a part of this discussion.
- Laura Jacobson Pentces gave an update on the grant request to the Herrick Foundation. The grant was submitted in July for an amount of $61,700 to be used for needed updates for compliance with current ADA requirements and to address safety issues. The Herrick Foundation should notify the board sometime before November if this grant is approved.
- Richard Harvey gave an update regarding the exit signs. The current signs do not meet code. Richard is working with a local electrician to address this issue.
- Judy Coffey will be the main source of pulpit supply for those Sundays when Pastor John Doud is not in the pulpit. As Pastor John is  $\frac{2}{3}$  time - there are a number of Sundays that the church is in need of pulpit supply. Money from Movies for the Mind has been designated to go for this.
- The congregation brainstormed different ideas for updating the current sign. Ideas included an "electronic" sign as well as just updating or redesigning the current sign. Troy Knight stated that he would investigate the costs of an electronic sign.
- Pat McCurdy stated her concern that on those Sundays when Pastor John is not in the pulpit, that there is a mechanism in place for noting visitors and those that should be on the prayer list and those that need/desire visitation. The board will discuss this at their August meeting.
- The board suggested that there be an upcoming number of "discussion" coffee hours. The first of these will concern finances and stewardship, led by Penny Phelps, Patrick Delaney and board members.
- Bob LeVand suggested a new ministry to consider - a laundry ministry. Those present acknowledged that this would be a good idea. The board will discuss at their August meeting and hammer out some of the details.
- Joyce Oatley talked about changes in the Stewardship drive calendar. Look for more about this in future newsletters.
